

Business background

The Department of Education has recognised the need to enhance career guidance for students and they've looked for a company to leverage AI technology. This partnership is aimed at integrating AI platforms into educational institutions nationwide, bridging the gap between education and employment. By offering personalised job/career suggestions, skill-building resources and helping individuals to make informed career decisions.